KING GEORGE IS WELCOMED BY THOUSANDS

Returns To Greece After Twelve-Year Exile

By Alexander Sedgwick
Athens, Nov. 25.—(A)—George of Greece came home today after 12 years of exile, but a stormy welcome for the returned monarch closed on a sharp note of disappointment when he failed to make a specific gesture of amnesty to political opponents.

The be-moaned monarch, who earlier was swept off his feet and flung aloft on the shoulders of wildly cheering thousands, issued a positively worded proclamation from the palace.

He did not refer to the hundreds of political prisoners or exiles beyond the statement: "I will bury the past."

Gen. George Kondyis, who established himself as regent through a coup paving the way for the king's return, resigned tonight and his resignation was accepted by the king, who began to study the formation of a new government.

It was rumored that George would ask the "dark horse" Demetrios Metaxas, former foreign minister, to become prime minister as a political peace-making gesture pending general elections.

The diplomatic corps, still unaccustomed by the new regime, was conspicuously absent from the day's celebration.

So enthusiastic was the crowd in hailing the 45-year-old monarch that it got beyond the control of police and swept him to their shoulders. Cavalry, with drawn sabres, charged the crowd. One person was reported wounded.

There will be no queen to share the throne with George. He was divorced from Queen Olga, daughter of King Carol of Romania, early this year.

A glitzy Nov. 30 event in an evening ballroom was planned for the return of King George.

Ships of the Greek fleet met the Hellenes when it entered Piraeus Bay.

Minister's Wife Returns To K. C. Quits "Crusade"

Says She Is Going To Be Busy Making Beds And Getting Meals

Kansas City, Nov. 25.—(A)—A minister's wife who fled the city because of alleged threats after she led an anti-smoking drive, came home today, but not to continue the crusade.

"I'm going to be busy making beds, getting meals and doing socks," said Mrs. A. J. Dahby.

She indicated she had definitely abandoned the campaign she started three weeks ago, aided by other women church and club leaders, to "run organized gambling clear out of Kansas City."

At the same time, her husband, back in his Baptist church pulpit after a period in which he also was in seclusion, said he would confine his sermons to sin in general hereafter.

His wife's health, Mr. Dahby explained, is too great a price for any good that might result from continuing a crusade against gambling and slot machines.

He said at the time she took their children and left town that she was under severe strain because of anonymous telephone calls threatening her with a "ride."

LEN SMALL'S CHARGE DENIED BY WILLIAMSON

Former Governor Says Dictators Trying To Pick Candidates

Kankakee, Ill., Nov. 25.—(A)—Former Governor Len Small today declared a "self-constituted group of party dictators" was attempting to choose a Republican state slate for 1936 in disregard of the primary next April 14.

His charge was denied tonight at Chicago by H. L. Williamson, Springfield, secretary of the Illinois Republican Editorial Association, at whom it was directed.

After receiving a caucus ballot from Williamson, Small wrote him: "I do not believe that any set of men should set themselves up as dictators of the Republican party."

"This ballot is in no sense an attempt to dictate the choice of candidates," Williamson said in Chicago. "It is merely to get an expression of opinion from Republican leaders throughout the state. I have not expressed a choice for any candidate and I don't expect to."

Williamson stated several thousand ballots were sent out. They went, he said, to editors of all Republican newspapers, Republican members of the legislature, all Republican county officers, members of the state central committee and each county chairman.

"This is not the first attempt to evade the primary law," said the former governor who has been mentioned as a probable gubernatorial candidate again next year.

"Both in 1920 and 1924 a self-selected group sought to name the Republican candidate for governor and both times their attempt at bossism was repudiated by the Republican voters."

He made a plea for party harmony, declaring all leaders and candidates should pledge support to the ticket named in the primary.

Judge Lindsey Is Restored To Colorado Bar

Founder Of Juvenile Court Declares That He Has Been "Vindicated"

Denver, Nov. 25.—(A)—Judge Ben B. Lindsey, fighting little founder of Denver juvenile court, was restored to the Colorado bar today. This ended one of the most sensational chapters of a career that earned him a national fame.

"I am vindicated," was his happy exclamation at Los Angeles when he heard the decision of the Colorado supreme court. He became a superior judge at Los Angeles after disbarment here.

It was a birthday present for the bald, spectacled and kindly faced judge against whom the charge of "gross official misconduct" was aimed seven years ago. He then was a public figure scarcely less known for his juvenile work than for his "companionate marriage" theories.

Judge Lindsey was accused of accepting $47,500 from an attorney and Mrs. Helen Edmond Stokes, Colorado beauty, after he had aided in obtaining a settlement reported to have been $30,000 from the estate of her husband, W. E. D. Stokes, New York financier for her two children.

He contended the sum was a "gift" offered because of his friendship with Mrs. Stokes. The revenue committee of the Colorado Bar Association impounded the money because it was not a gift.

The court's decision was written by Circuit Judge Evan A. Evans and Judges Will M. Sparks and Robert C. Baltzell concurred.

Cullen, known as the man who owned more wheat at one time than any other man in history, was suspended in March by the grain futures administration.

He was charged with having failed to report his grain holdings in 1930 and 1931 for the purpose of manipulating prices.

Hollywood, Nov. 25.—(A)—Dolores Costello, divorced wife of John Barrymore, has signed a contract to appear in "Little Lord Fauntleroy." Production started today.

David O. Selznick, producer, said Miss Costello will play the mother of Fauntleroy. Freddie Bartholomew will be Fauntleroy.

Miss Costello has been out of the movies four years. Selznick said many new roles are planned for her.

HONORS REQUESTION
Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 25.—(A)—An Illinois requisition for Gilbert Fischer, a fugitive from the Vandenberg farm, was honored today by Gov. Park. Fischer escaped March 1934.

SENATE ADOPTS AMENDMENTS TO INSURANCE CODE
Administration Bill Is Advanced To Third Reading

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 25.—(A)—The administration bill to recodify Illinois insurance laws was advanced to the passage stage in the Senate tonight as further wrangling developed over the agricultural association's amendments to the fire insurer relief bills.

Governor Horner Declares He Will Not Give up Job For Federal Appointment

SENATE ADOPTS AMENDMENTS TO INSURANCE CODE

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 25.—(A)—Governor Horner today interrupted his efforts to learn how much of Illinois relief bills was political tincture and how much actual fact, to make it clear that he would not give up his job for a federal appointment.

"Neither, he said, would he give up his desire to wrestle with relief and other state problems at the end of his present term."

"I have not been offered appointment to any federal position," he asserted. "If I were, I would not accept. I wouldn't even give it any consideration."

He has been mentioned frequently in recent weeks as a possible appointee to the federal courts in a political move to clear the way for another democratic gubernatorial candidate in 1936.

He also branded as at least partly political the present relief problems. Just how much was fact he sought to learn from Illinois emergency relief commission officials who were summoned to aid him in solving immediate problems, including a specific relief fund Friday of papers trying to secure the state would lack sufficient relief funds next month.

Two more state officers were dispatched to Washington to learn whether the future course of the state, as now plotted by special session bills meets federal assistance requirements.

The meetings here, Mr. Horner said, would provide the ammunition to an answer to a statement by Howard O. Brown, chief representative of the federal emergency relief administration, to the I.E.R.C. last Friday that "the state must do something."

Present at the conference which last month at the Chicago meeting at which Mr. Horner said the state would need more money during the seven months ending July 1. From them Mr. Horner said he expected to determine the "true picture of the situation."

Even before he heard their report, however, the governor said he did not believe that "under any circumstances" the state need $3,000,000 a month for relief during the first six months of 1936. He scoffed the idea of an increase in taxes, a possibility discussed by everyone but the governor since the I.E.R.C. meeting.

Neither, he said, would it be necessary to dip into the state's cash reserve for relief funds. Such a course was suggested yesterday by minority leaders of the legislature, but Mr. Horner turned a deaf ear to their proposals, asserting most of the money on hand was earmarked for a state building program.

He likewise refused to consider the possibility of a special session of the legislature to appropriate money for relief.

"I'm amazed at the developments," he said. "It has been only a short time since some of the same men who are now commenting on the prospects of a tax increase were discussing the possibility of a reduction of the sales tax."

There has been, Mr. Horner said, little change in the situation. He said he had declared the federal program will take care of the state's employable relief claims.

"Illinois can take care of the rest," Mr. Horner said. "Unless, of course, there has been some major development of which I have not been informed."

Meanwhile Dewitt Billman, executive secretary of the legislative reference bureau, and assistant attorney general Montgomery S. Winningham traveled toward Washington to confer with federal officials on the Illinois old age pension bills now before the legislature.

Governor Horner said the officials were instructed to learn whether a provision for a $15 maximum state pension would limit federal aid to half that amount or whether the government would match the sum. They also were told to find out if the present provision of a house bill for administration of the act by county boards, appointed by county judges met federal requirements.

Depaved Gunman Kills Little Girl
Fresno, Calif., Nov. 25.—(A)—A depaved gunman who shot and fatally wounded 14-year-old Mary Stammer in her home in the fashionable Fig Garden district was sought tonight throughout the San Joaquin valley.

The shot was fired through a window last night as the daughter of a prominent attorney sat studying. Her mother, Mrs. W. H. Stammer, found the girl dying when she returned home from an errand.

The unconscious girl had been dragged into a bedroom and disrobed. Her attacker apparently was frightened away by Mrs. Stammer's return.

Sheriff's deputies and members of the district attorney's staff spent several hours fingerprinting and questioning more than 90 men rounded up in "hobo" rumbles.

Sheriff George Overholt called for bloodhounds today to aid in the search.

Miss Effie Bradley of Bluffs was a caller in Jacksonville yesterday.

DETROIT'S BABY MYSTERY SOLVED BY CONFESSION

Aged Man Admits He Tossed Infant Into River

Detroit, Nov. 25.—(A)—The Great Lakes baby mystery, for 12 years one of Detroit's strangest cases, was marked solved today.

Alphonse Vlemminck, 62-year-old Belgian who was given the child of William C. Greatrex in 1923 by the mistake of a hospital nurse, weepingly confessed today Sheriff Henry Behrendt announced that he had thrown the infant's body in the Detroit river in the belief it was his unmarried daughter's baby.

"My daughter left the baby in the hospital," Vlemminck said in a signed confession. "She told me she didn't want the baby around the house, ever. She said to me, 'some day I will want to get married and I won't want the baby then.'"

Vlemminck had readily admitted during frequent questioning that he was the father of his daughter's baby. The daughter then was 19 years old.

The prisoner, recently sentenced to 12 to 15 years imprisonment for taking an elderly child, with a four-year-old child, to land elsewhere in the city, confessed that he placed the Great Lakes baby in the nurse handed on the floor of his car tightly wrapped in a coat, drove to the river and dropped it in.

Greatrex, a rubber plant workman, lobbied today when informed of Vlemminck's confession. He spent all his savings in search for his son, hoping against hope that Vlemminck's story he had stolen the baby for adoption to a couple from Pennsylvania" was true.

The prosecutor's office has not decided what action it will take against Vlemminck.

Aged Elder Says Baptism Must Have "Plenty Of Water"

Fight Over Church Doctrine At Thomson, Ill., Has Reached Court

St. Charles, Ill., Nov. 25.—(A)—An aged elder of the First Christian Church of Thomson, Ill., split by a fight over doctrine that led to circuit court testimony today that real baptism must have "water—plenty of water."

William Hawk, 70, hobbled to the witness stand to contend that baptism by immersion and absolute belief in Christ's miracles were essential to church membership.

He was the first complaining witness in the suit of 23 members of the congregation of 190 for an injunction restraining the pastor, the Rev. David E. Todd, 32, and some of the trustees from teaching doctrines which the plaintiffs regard as contrary to the fundamental principles of the church.

The complainants sought a court order to prevent the defendants from admitting persons to the church without baptism by total immersion, from preaching that some of Christ's miracles were myths and from approving election to church posts of persons not members of the congregation.

Bitterness over these charges raised a bitter controversy in the flock. The church, established in 1868 and attended by some of the leading citizens of the quiet Mississippi hamlet, is independent. So the only way to settle the difficulties was in the courts.

One Killed, Six Hurt In Crash
Charleston, Ill., Nov. 25.—(A)—Harve Tullock, 58, a Westfield filling station operator was killed today and six other persons, including five high school students, were injured in a motorist collision on State Route 15 a half mile west of here.

Tullock was riding with B. H. Beasley, of Westfield, who suffered minor injuries.

Occupants of the second machine were Charles Fudge, 18, who suffered a broken leg; Maxine Doty, 18, head injuries; Harold Gillistie, 19, chest injuries; and Robert Cottingham and Maurice Marks, who were cut and bruised.

The students, children of farmers living west of Charleston, were returning home after classes.

RUSH SEASON
Chicago, Nov. 25.—(A)—Two boys who rushed the skating season today narrowly escaped drowning when they broke through the ice on the Humboldt park lagoon.

Leo Seroky, 14, got to shore unaided, but Alex Boshardy, 16, was in the cold water for almost half an hour before firemen succeeded in dragging him out.

After Alex was unable to grasp a life preserver tossed to him, five firemen stood neck-deep in the lagoon while the sixth crawled across the thin ice on a ladder they supported and caught the boy by his clothes.

Then both were hauled back to land.

Brazilian Government Has Sent Warships and Troops To Crush Revolt in North

WOUNDED YOUTH TELLS OFFICERS HE KILLED FIVE

Rio De Janeiro, Nov. 25.—(A)—The Brazilian government declared a two months "state of siege" throughout the nation tonight and sent warships, airplanes and troops to crush a bloody Leftist revolt in the north.

Rebels, said by the government to be communists, seized Natal, important port capital of the state of Rio Grande do Norte. They also controlled the city of Macaya, in the same state and another outbreak was reported in Curitiba, capital of the southern state of Parana.

Non-commissioned officers of the army were said to be leaders of the insurrection, adopting their tactics from the successful Cuban revolt of 1933.

Troops were expressed for the safety of the huge Graf Zeppelin due at Recife, in the northeast area where the fighting is hottest, after a flight from Africa.

It ordinarily moors at Joazeiro, on the outskirts of the city near Orlando, where federal forces and rebels were battling.

Officials of the Condor Syndicate, agents for the ship here, ordered the Graf by radio to land elsewhere if possible, or if she had enough gasoline to proceed to Rio De Janeiro.

President Getulio Vargas, after a cabinet meeting, called the Chamber of Deputies into session and party leaders immediately signed an emergency bill granting his request for a "state of siege."

This amounts to virtual martial law. Vargas said the plot was not confined to the states of Pernambuco and Rio Grande do Norte but also embraced the 18 other states of the nation.

"There is proof of the intention to implant a Communist regime," he asserted.

Reports were circulated in Rio De Janeiro that Socialists expected the small state of Ceara, lying immediately north of Rio Grande do Norte, to join the northeastern uprising.

Facts in possession of the government were alleged to have disclosed a widely ramified Socialist movement designed to grip all Brazil within three months. Police Chief Mader of Rio De Janeiro, the most important agent working directly under the minister of the interior, reported at least a month ago that the maturing plans had brought again to Brazil Luiz Carlos Prestes, "The Knight of Hope" of the 1924 Sao Paulo rebellion, to head this revolt.

CHINA CLIPPER HAS ARRIVED AT WAKE ISLAND

Makes 1,191 Mile Trip In Eight Hours And 28 Minutes

Wake Island, Nov. 25.—(A)—Tuesday (Via American Airways Radio)—An air mail sped across another stretch of the vast Pacific ocean today when the China Clipper landed here enroute to Manila after a swift 1,191-mile flight from Midway Island.

The mighty seaplane glided easily to a landing at 1:40 p. m. (9:49 p. m. Monday, Eastern standard time). It required eight hours and 28 minutes for the flight, an average of about 125 miles an hour. Capt. E. C. Musick, skipper of the 25-ton craft, had estimated 10 hours would be required.

In about 38 and one-half hours of flying, the China Clipper has crossed nearly 5,000 miles of the 8,000-mile distance between Alameda, Calif., and Manila, end of the present journey to establish trans-Pacific air mail service.

Mail and supplies for the Wake Airways station arrived aboard the seaplane which also brought nine employees to be stationed here.

The China Clipper left Alameda Friday afternoon, and stopped overnight at Honolulu and Midway.

On today's flight, the international dateline was crossed, and time aboard the four-motored craft jumped ahead one whole day.

A 1,500-mile flight to Guam, last of the Island Way stations, and then a flight of 1,700 miles to Manila, remain.

Present schedules call for the voyage to Cebu tomorrow and the Manila flight, Thursday. The entire voyage, which takes a month by fastest liner, is expected to be completed in 60 hours actual flying time and about five days elapsed time.

The China Clipper has some 1,500 pounds of air mail for Manila. Most of it came from United States stamp collectors, anxious to save the stamps from the first trans-Pacific air mail flight.

VETERAN DIES
Freeport, Ill., Nov. 25.—(A)—Joseph T. Vick, who was honorably discharged from the Union Army in 1903 after illness paralyzed his left side, died today. He was 83.

Despite his handicap Vick was a successful farmer. His Civil War service was with Company H, 96th Illinois infantry.

Chester Comer Captured After Battle With Deputy

WOUNDED YOUTH TELLS OFFICERS HE KILLED FIVE

Oklahoma City, Nov. 25.—(A)—Five missing persons, all feared slain, were sought throughout Oklahoma tonight after E. Smith Hester, McClain county attorney, announced a critically wounded suspect had confessed to him the slaying of those missing.

Hester said the captive, Chester Comer, 25-year-old Oklahoma City youth, mumbled to him after he was shot by a town marshal near Blanchard.

"I did away with three, dumped their bodies in a pile under a pipe line, Allen, near Ada."

He was expressed by Mrs. J. R. Childers, stepmother of Elizabeth Childers, Comer's first wife, and by Charles Stevens, father of Mrs. Lucille Stevens Comer, his second wife, led officers to add their names to the list of missing.

Hester said Comer admitted he "did away with" Ray Evans, prominent Shawnee civic leader; L. A. Simpson, Piedmont farmer, and Simpson's son, Warren, 14.

Evans disappeared last Tuesday, the Simpsons on Saturday.

"I last heard from my stepdaughter in August," Mrs. Childers said. "She was such a good girl I know she would have written if something hadn't happened to her."

Similar fears were expressed by Stevens, who said his daughter last was heard from in McLean, Tex., Sept. 14.

"If she was all right, she would let us know," he said, brokenly. He is a tall, knobby farmer near Mayville, the place where the abandoned car of Evans was found with a blood-stained sock inside.

"Three bodies... Oh, piles of bodies," Hester quoted the suspect as saying to him in answer to a query concerning the whereabouts of Evans and the Simpson.

Then, said Hester, his confession came through pain-drenched lips. "J. L. Stanley, a relative of Evans, asked Comer 'Where is Ray Evans?'"

Back came the mumbled reply: "Pittstown... east of Pittstown... in a creek. Pipe line, ditch."

Comer, for whom a search had spread over five central Oklahoma counties, was captured by Oscar Morgan, Blanchard, marshal, who was slightly wounded in the gun battle with the fugitive. At the time of his capture, authorities said, Comer was in an automobile belonging to Simpson.

Miers and Daley said Comer gave no hint of a motive, but a statement, "pipe line near Allen," sent officers in a search for the bodies. A brief case belonging to Evans was found in Comer's possession.

Evans' former city attorney at Shawnee and franchise attorney for an Oklahoma public utility, left Tuesday seeking an interview with a client who lived in the southern section of the state.

G. O. Palmer, of Piedmont, identified Comer as a man he saw one-half mile from the spot where Simpson was supposed to have been picked up by a hitchhiker Saturday and his son was returning to their farm after visiting a relative.

Frank Luschen, of Piedmont, also identified Comer as the man he picked up and hauled two and a half miles in a truck in the same neighborhood Saturday afternoon.

In Comer's pocket was found a card on which was written in pencil: "If I am killed in this car I have nothing to regret for I'd rather be dead than a public slave."

Blanchard officers said it appeared Comer had eaten and slept in the car since Saturday.

ALMANAC WRONG
East St. Louis, Ill., Nov. 25.—(A)—Harold W. Vaughn, an Alexander county farmer, has lost faith in his calendar and almanac.

He was fined $10 and costs by Federal Judge Fred L. Wham today for hunting ducks after sundown on Horseshoe Lake, near Cairo.

Vaughn produced a calendar which listed Sundown on the day he was hunting, at 5:05 p. m. The United States weather bureau said sundown came at 4:56 p. m. that day.

INCREASE WAGES
Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 25.—(A)—The Du Pont Rayon Company and the Du Pont Cellulose company at Old Hickory, Tenn., announced today an "urgent adjustment of hourly wages" affecting a majority of 4,500 employees. Payrolls at the two plants have totaled about $6,000,000 a year. The company declined to give the amount of increase.

Vote For New Schools Today

Beginning at noon today and continuing until 7 o'clock this evening polls will be open in the four ward grade school buildings of the city for voters to decide whether Jacksonville shall proceed with the construction of two modern buildings on the Lafayette and Franklin sites. There is ample reason to believe the voters will approve the plan by a substantial majority.

With the government furnishing 45 per cent of the money, and the remainder financed by a bond issue which requires no increase in taxes for the district, there is no legitimate reason for anybody to oppose the proposition. Jacksonville will acquire two new and modern buildings, completing its program of modernizing the grade schools, for practically the price of one. This will be accomplished without added cost to the taxpayers.

If the voters approve, work on the Lafayette building will start within a few weeks, providing employment during the winter months for a large force of men. That will mean much for the city. The Franklin building will be erected probably within another year.

Both buildings will be similar to the new Washington school, which has proved to be a most attractive and convenient structure. The fact that plans for the buildings already exist and will require but few alterations, will reduce the cost. Materials may also be salvaged from the two old buildings, the structures are so old that the amount of usable material may be small.

Anyhow the plan is the most practical ever submitted to the people, and it is doubtful if another such opportunity to complete the building program at such small cost will ever be repeated. Jacksonville must act today and vote for all three of the proposals on the ballot.

Andrew Carnegie

Monday in Pittsburgh, the steel city, citizens celebrated the centenary of the birth of Andrew Carnegie, the man who founded the empire of steel and ruled it until he wrested from England the steel trade of the world. Carnegie rose to mastery of a great pioneer industry because of his ability to select men to handle the practical details.

Under his leadership the wizards he put in command of the industry boosted the production of the belching furnaces and eventually earned $5,000,000 a month for the steel baron. At the turn of the century Carnegie sold his empire in the greatest transaction in business history. The Morgan interests bought the Carnegie holdings for half a billion dollars and founded the present United States Steel Corporation.

But Andrew Carnegie is not remembered so much for his acquisition as for his disposition of wealth. Through the world he founded hundreds of libraries. He gave to colleges and universities and established Carnegie Technological Institute in Pittsburgh. He was a promoter of world peace, giving millions in a cause that collapsed with the outbreak of the world war. He died Aug. 11, 1919 at the age of 84. The last years of his life were filled with sadness because of the world conflagration.

In every community where he built a library and made it possible to spread culture among the people and for them, to improve their leisure moments thru good reading. It has been announced from Norway there will be no Nobel peace prize this year, because the world is disturbed by wars and rumors of wars. But the memory of Carnegie is not marred by the failure of his peace efforts; while it glows with new warmth because of his gifts in the cause of education.

Business Speaks Out

The overwhelming vote against the New Deal given by business men throughout the country in answering questions put by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce should convince any thinking person that business is not satisfied with government spending without relation to revenue or with constant government interference with private enterprises thru regulation and direct competition.

There has been criticism that the questions were so stated that the organization managing the poll would get the answer desired. Reading the questions, we can see no grounds for such criticism. "Should there be extension of federal jurisdiction into matters of state and local concern?" is the first one. Surely there is no question but that the Washington government has been doing just that, and in deciding that such encroachments should stop, business men who voted in the negative on the question were expressing a legitimate opinion.

"Should the federal government at the present time exercise federal spending power without relation to revenue?" The answer was overwhelmingly in the negative. People are tired of the enormous spending spree which only recently has shown signs of abatement. The disregard of any attempt to balance the federal budget has filled the country with unrest. Business knows full well that the enormous debt will have to be paid, and that the burden will fall heavily on the earning capacity of the country, reducing buying power and making another depression highly probable.

Efficiency Expert

According to recent advices from Washington, Dr. Rexford Tugwell, head of the Resettlement administration and one of the government's principal new schemers, is using offices in eighteen buildings to house his staff of 12,089 officials who so far have succeeded in finding jobs for 5,012 relief clients.

The pay roll for Dr. Tugwell's helpers totals $1,350,000 per month and the total pay roll for the needy persons these helpers have succeeded in helping is $300,000.

By thus using an average of more than two officials for each needy person added and by spending $5.83 for each dollar distributed for relief purposes, Dr. Tugwell has qualified for the honor of being the administration's high ranking efficiency expert in the matter of prodigal spending.

The government's civilian pay roll, exclusive of the CCC and relief workers, now has reached an all time high, exceeding the world war period. There are now 794,467 federal job holders, an increase of 82,355 since midsummer. There is no doubt but that "happy days are here again" for many people.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

Faint Ray of Hope Illumines London Naval Conference . . . United Front May Curb Tokyo Demands for Parity . . . British Change Policy of Playing U. S. and Japan Against Each Other . . . But There's Slim Chance of Averting Sea Power Race.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal and Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington.—Naval and diplomatic gossip here is that the naval conference about to be convened in London is a futile gesture and that nothing will come of it but excuses for Japan, England, and the United States to tell their taxpayers that the other nations will not compromise and that the only recourse is to enter the international naval race.

Nevertheless, there is a distinct hope—and it can be said with authority that it persists with the American delegation—that naval limitation can be continued and Japan made to modify her insistence on parity with Great Britain and the United States.

This administration has gone so long on the theory that Japan was bluffing and could be out-bluffed that most of the bystanders have decided the theory was all wet.

The only thing tending to strengthen the first belief as the delegation sails is a hope that all other nations at the conference can be brought into a united front against Japan, thereby persuading her that it would be a good thing to back down for the present from her complete denunciation of the Washington and London treaties.

Britain Changes Policy
Hope to slow up Japan rests primarily on the fact that Britain and America will have a more sympathetic understanding together than at any previous international conference. Until rather recently the British have followed their long-standing tradition and sought to play off the Americans and Japanese against each other.

Lately, however, according to diplomatic insiders, the British have been developing a wholesome fear of Japan and a belief that Japanese aggression will sooner or later lead to a British-Japanese clash in the Far East.

This time it is expected the British and the Americans will work together to head off a gigantic naval race and will try to get other nations—not only those attending the conference—to join them.

Japan wants a 5-5-5 ship parity because she expects to rank equally as a first-class power with England and America after she spreads her sphere of influence through further Chinese territory and because she wants to be sure of being able to hold and protect all she takes.

Japan Safe From Attack
Every naval expert knows that neither the British nor the American fleet could successfully attack Japan. With the 5-5-5 ratio prevailing, the Japanese islands are so far away and easy to protect that American naval officers view the thought of war on Nippon with actual horror.

It is even very doubtful whether the combined British and American fleets could successfully best the Japanese at this time on their home grounds.

And the idea of any such attempts now is preposterous. The European situation requires England to keep much of her strength in European waters. To move the bulk of it into the Pacific would be to expose the British Isles and the vital Mediterranean-Egyptian-Suez Canal line to India.

And the United States is experiencing such a fervor for neutrality that it is doubtful whether even Japanese seizure of the Philippines—a far-off possibility—could bring about real warfare in the Pacific.

One Club Over Nippon
The one punitive measure which could bring Japan to her knees, in the opinion of officials here, would be an economic embargo. Japan has recently observed that nations of the world are able to combine in such a step. She would not like to be the victim of one.

These are some of the facts that arise in the minds of Americans participating in the naval conference as they dare hope for something better than a free-for-all naval race.

But each of the delegates knows that the European situation is so complicated, so delicate, and so unpredictable that they're embarking on no more than a gamble.

And the pessimists they leave behind as they quit these shores suggest that there is not much more than a gambler's chance.

Curtis Mayberry of Athensville Slays Self With Shotgun

Young Man's Father Sees Him Grab Weapon and Pull the Trigger

Greenfield.—Curtis Alexander Mayberry, 21, ended his life at his home near Athensville Sunday afternoon by shooting himself in the head with a shotgun.

Mayberry's father, Francis Mayberry, was a witness to the shooting. The elder Mayberry said his son went into the house where the two resided and picked up a shotgun and two shells. When he asked his son where he was going the young man did not answer. He followed his son out of the house and as he ran after him the latter picked up an iron rod and used it to fire the gun before he reached him.

At an inquest conducted by Coroner Russell Shields the elder Mayberry said he knew of no reason for his son's act.

The decedent is survived by his father and a brother, Cecil, of Athensville; two sisters, Mrs. Edith Garner of Hoochouse and Miss Eula Mayberry of Athensville.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the Athensville church with Rev. James Preston officiating.

Burial will be in Athensville cemetery.

Dramatic Club of College Will Give Tarkington's Play

Talented Cast of 13 Will Stage "Mister Angelo" Thursday Evening

Using a cast of thirteen players, the MacMurray College Dramatic club will present on the evening of Thursday, November 28, at 7:30 o'clock, Booth Tarkington's four-act play, "Mister Angelo."

The setting for this story is in the eastern part of the United States, in New York City, and in a small Pennsylvania town. The plot centers around middle-class family life and the narrow ideas of people in small towns, which may be representative of people anywhere not just in the east.

Love and understanding of mankind, an appreciation of art and beauty, and a definite philosophy of life—these are the qualities of the Italian hurdy-gurdy man, Antonio Camerado. This role will be played by Thyra Smith, senior speech major.

Of particular interest throughout the play is the influence of this character upon Mr. Jorney, the mayor of the small Pennsylvania town, who goes to the city and engaged in unwise actions but poses in his home town as the purifier of all evils. Meredith Storr, who has played strong men's leads in several of the MacMurray productions will take this part.

Intermingled pathos and humor are in the sentences spoken by Mr. Antonio and June Ramsey, the outcast hired girl of the Jorneys. In their scenes together, Virginia Starr, who last year played the lead in "Madame Butterfly," portrays the character of June with full dramatic appreciation.

Supporting parts in the drama will be played by Myra White, as Tug, the New York cafe proprietor; Phyllis Patchen, a city street girl; Merle Walters, as Mrs. Jorney, the mayor's wife; Elizabeth Lumley, as Avalonia, the mayor's daughter; Virginia Nichols and Loretta Hallack as the Reverend and Mrs. Walpole; Eileen Kincaid, as Earl Walpole; Dorothy Conover, as George Riddle, the mayor's son-in-law, and chief of police; and Myrle Andrews as Minnie Riddle. The part of Joe, Tony's partner, will be taken by Marjorie McConnell.

Frank Dawdy Gets Back Part of Stuff; Thief Confesses on Way to Prison

White Hall.—Frank Dawdy, local funeral director, who lost a number of articles from his garage on the night of Oct. 4, has had a part of the articles restored to him. The articles were located at New London, Mo. A man named Stanley Bridges of that place is said to have confessed to the sheriff to having the articles, as he was being taken to the penitentiary at Jefferson City on another charge.

The sheriff wrote to Mr. Dawdy and he and Deputy Sheriff Painter of Greene county went to New London and brought part of the stolen property back with them. Some of the stuff was missing but the remainder was in perfect condition. The tent used over graves had never been removed from the sacks in which it was kept. The tents, tent poles, side walls, hand drill, a quantity of new rope, and a sleds were recovered. A car heater, and canvas used for covering dirt at a grave and some potatoes and other articles were not recovered. Mr. Dawdy is still out about $20 worth of property.

A typewriter from the Pleasant Hill High school was also found among the truck load of stolen articles, many of which have not been identified. Mr. Dawdy was informed that Bridges had served three terms in the penitentiary within the last four years.

Injuries Fatal to Joseph W. Jackson, Victim of Collision

Well Known Man Hurt in Traffic Wreck Passes
Away Sunday

Injuries sustained Saturday afternoon in an automobile and truck collision here resulted in the death of Joseph W. Jackson, 69, at 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

After the accident at East College and Clay avenues, Mr. Jackson did not at first appear to be seriously hurt. He was not taken to Our Saviour's hospital until two hours after the collision, as his condition was not known to be serious.

During the night his condition took a change for the worse. His death resulted from cerebral concussion.

Mr. Jackson, a well known former Jacksonville citizen, was an employee and manager of the Andrews Lumber Company here for more than 40 years. He moved to Fairfield, Iowa, ten years ago.

The fatal collision occurred when Mr. Jackson in his Buick coupe entered College avenue from Clay avenue. Otis Carter in a coal truck was headed west on College avenue, and a collision resulted.

Car Remains Upright
Jackson's car was not overturned but one of the front wheels was broken and other damage done. Mr. Jackson is believed to have been thrown against the top or side of the car. He was taken to the home of Hal C. Sharp, 238 East College avenue, and later to the hospital.

Miss Martha Curry, granddaughter of Mr. Jackson, was with him in the coupe but escaped injury.

A coroner's jury empaneled Sunday afternoon by Coroner Elmer Sample at the Reynolds Mortuary returned a verdict of death from cerebral concussion. Several witnesses were heard including Carter, the truck driver.

He said he was traveling in the truck at about 30 miles an hour when the coupe pulled out in front of him at the intersection. The Jackson car did not stop for the boulevard, Carter told the jurors.

Other witnesses were State Highway Patrolman Valentine and Dr. F. A. Norris.

The jurors were Clarence Lukeman, Dr. R. C. Henley, A. R. Cully, Charles Fawcett, Willis Sanders and J. G. Reynolds.

Here on Visit
Mr. Jackson's tragic death occurred while he was on a visit here with his brother, daughter and other relatives.

He was well known in this community because of his long residence, and returned frequently to spend a few days with members of his family.

For more than 40 years he was actively engaged in business here as an employee of the F. J. Andrews Lumber Company. He was a member of the Fike Lodge and Baptist church.

Surviving are his wife; two daughters, Mrs. A. E. Curry of Pisgah, and Mrs. Helen Sellers, Fairfield, Iowa; two brothers, Arthur Jackson, 322 Reid street, and Edward Jackson, San Juan, Texas.

Mr. Jackson also was an active Rotarian, and enjoyed the distinction of being a Hundred Per Cent Rotarian, having met with all requirements of perfect membership.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at two o'clock at the First Baptist church, with interment in Diamond Grove cemetery. Friends may view the remains at the Reynolds Chapel until one o'clock today when they will be taken to the church.

WHAT THE MILDNESS OF CAMELS MEANS TO FAMOUS AVIATORS

Lieutenant Commander Frank Hawks, U.S.N.R., famous holder of 214 speed records and the Harmon Trophy, says: "I've been flying for 19 years and smoking Camels almost as long. Making speed records tests the pilot as well as his plane. Camels never make me jumpy or bother my physical 'condition' in any way. As the athletes say, Camels are so mild they don't get the wind. And I've found they never upset my nerves. Camel must use choicer tobaccos."

"Camels don't get your Wind" Athletes say

"Speaking of cigarettes, I make it a rule to smoke Camels," says Mrs. T. W. Kenyon, sportswoman pilot. "They are the mildest cigarette I know. Morning, noon, and night, I can smoke Camels steadily. They never upset my nerves. And each Camel renews the zest and enjoyment of the last one!"

"They Never Get on Your Nerves"

"I appreciate the mellow flavor of Camels," says Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, the transpacific flyer, in a recent interview. "Camels refresh me so when I'm fatigued," he continues, "and they are so mild that I can smoke any number without throwing my nerves off key."

"They Never Tire Your Taste"

"I smoke Camels all I want," says Col. Roscoe Turner (below), cross-continent speed ace. "Because of their mildness, Camels never tire my taste. A speed flyer uses up energy just as his motor uses 'gas.' After smoking a Camel, I get 'refill' in energy."

When Johnny and Janie Come Back to the Old Home Town

Travel Adds to Size of Head or Heart

What the Outside World Does to the Character of Former Residents Stands Revealed When They Visit the Family Homestead

There should be an essay written on the art of coming back to the home town.

It's a subject practically every one knows something about.

From one angle or the other.

For if you are one of those whom wish or circumstances has carried to live in distant places or bigger places, and have come back to your own home and been with those who still live there, you know the subject from that angle.

And if you haven't gone away but have stayed on in the home town, you have had plenty of experience with people who have come back for visits, so you know it from that angle.

I have been thinking of it today because I have just had an experience with a friend who knows how to come back gracefully.

A group of stay-behinds entertained her. We were interested in her new home, of course, and she told us about it. But she didn't talk exclusively of that. She wanted to know about all the old friends. She was full of do-you-remember.

Then some one spoke of the beautiful shops in the big city near which she lives.

"Yes, I know," she said, "they are wonderful in their way, but do you know, I've really never been able to get the things I like anywhere so well as in the lovely shops here, even if there aren't so many of them."

Spoke of the waitresses. In a pause in the conversation she went to the window and looked out on the park and spires beyond. "Such a graceful city," she said. "I've seen quite a few and I don't know any one where you get such lovely glimpses."

At the restaurant where we had lunch the waitress was very helpful, and she spoke of that. She had never been anywhere where the people in the stores and restaurants and so forth were so courteous and helpful, she said.

Now do not think that she dislikes the place where she lives or is less comfortably situated. As a matter of fact, she has a lovely home with every comfort and a good deal of luxury and many desirable friends. I don't think she is in the least bit homesick. I think she is gracious and tactful—an adept in the fine art of coming back gracefully.

We were talking about it afterwards and some one reminded us of another far-dweller whom she had entertained when she came back.

With her nothing was right with the city. It was ridiculously small. The climate was wretched—how did we stand it? We thought our parks were attractive, did we? We should see the parks in—so-and-so, one of the many cities she has visited. And where did we find such stupid policemen? She had had to ask her way twice when she was driving and she never saw any one who had such trouble understanding. We must pick them with an I Q test and take the lowest. And wasn't there really any place in the city where one could buy a decent hat? She had left in a hurry and needed one more hat, but she certainly would get along without it.

Some one summed it up this way. I thought it a very good analysis:

"Well, it seems to me that some people when they travel around and see the world get bigger hearts, but some just get bigger heads."

THE LITTLE GIRL'S BERET

So often improper washing and drying of the child's wool beret spells ruin. The safest method is to wash the beret in lukewarm sudsy water, rinse carefully in the same temperature clear water, and then slip over a plate the same size the beret originally was. Let it dry over this improvised stretcher and all will be well.

YOUR FAVORITE QUILT

If the down quilt is soiled, and doing its job, you are ashamed to have it in sight, cover it with a pretty sateen or cretonne, following the former lines of stitching. It takes just a little time and patience but saves money and is worth the trouble.

A container filled with salt and pepper, well mixed, is convenient for the invalid's tray. It eliminates an extra shaker and is easier for the sick person to handle.

Q—Yes, just a minute; that is all very interesting. Your height?

A—Five feet five inches.

Q—Telephone number?

A—Hollywood 47—Say, what is this, anyway? Seems like a funny kind of interview.

A—Well, I have been called the Quintessence of Dazzling Pulchritude, the Enchanting High Priestess of Hoofing, the—

Q—That's fine, Miss Thompson. To what do you attribute your success?

A—Have you ever seen me in a bathing suit?

Q—Oh, then you are a sort of celestial Venus?

A—Venus was okay in her day, but she couldn't get by in a Hollywood chorus. Carried too much weight for her age.

Q—How do you keep your figure?

A—Girls who dance don't have to worry about their figures. Did you ever dance eight hours a day?

Q—Why—ah—

A—I thought not. You ought to try it some time. You look as though you could stand losing a few pounds.

Q—Never mind. What do you do for recreation?

A—I read. I read biographies.

Q—What biographies?

A—Oh, just biographies. Must you pry into the innermost secrets of my private life? Biographies are a great stimulant for my mind.

Q—Your what, Miss Thompson?

A—My mind, smarty. I also go to movies.

Q—And what do you think of the future of the cinema?

A—I believe that if all of us strive determinedly for the betterment of this great art-form, the cinema will become a very popular medium of entertainment.

Q—Who are your favorite stars?

A—Bing Crosby, Mae West, Gary Cooper, W. C. Fields and Claudette Colbert, of course.

Q—Why "of course"?

A—Because they are working for Paramount and I am working for Paramount. I also think that Ernst Lubitsch is the greatest of film executives. He works for Par—

Q—Let's skip that, Miss Thompson. What are your beauty secrets?

A—Plenty of sleep and rigorous athletic training. It helps a little if one happens to be born good-looking. Ho-hum—pardon me, I was out late last night making a bit of hey hey. Have you got a cigarette?

Q—Perhaps you have some definite rules for success that you would like to pass along to other ambitious girls?

A—Yes, indeed! The early bird is worth two in the bush. A penny saved is the root of all evil. A bird in the hand never catches the worm. A stitch in time is worth a pound of cure. Modesty is the best policy. One man's mate is another man's poison. All is not gold that has a silver lining. Shall I go on?

Q—No, no—please! Now tell us, Miss Thompson, how much steady work you chorus girls average each year.

A—About six months, if we're lucky.

Q—Have you been busy lately?

A—Very busy.

Q—Are you busy Tuesday evening?

A—Yes—too busy.

How to Pick Out Turkey That's Fit to Gobble

BY MARY E. DAGUE

NEA Service Staff Writer

Here's something in the way of Thanksgiving news to upset you if your order for turkey isn't already in. The noble national bird is scarcer this year than last! The U. S. Department of Agriculture says so and must know because it made a survey. The 1935

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Northern spy apples, cereal, cream, scrambled eggs, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Stuffed and baked Des Moines squash, Philadelphia relish, jelly roll cake, milk, tea.

DINNER: Salmon loaf, creamed peas, date and orange salad, molasses pudding, milk, coffee.

grouse is partly to blame—but if you order now you'll probably find no lack.

A turkey to be in its prime should be of last spring's hatching. This means that it's from six to eight months old, has grown fast and will be tender and delicious when roasted.

Most city markets offer a choice of milk-fed or corn-fed stock. A milk-fed turkey is considered the finest grade. This means that the bird has had a diet of ground grain and buttermilk or of powdered whole milk. The flesh is white with clear white fat over the breast and with a distribution of fat throughout the muscles.

It Isn't a Frolic—It's Work the Italians Are Doing

At first glance these Italian soldiers in the rock-strewn wastes of Ethiopia would seem to be dancing the tarantella of their homeland, 3000 miles away. Actually, though, they're working—building a road in the Makale sector, passing stones from hand to hand, bucket brigade fashion. So this picture by Ray Rousseau, NEA Service staff photographer, proves again that war isn't all glamour and glory in a land lacking in highways, a factor which has proved a grave problem to the Italian transport system.

Camp Jacksonville Boxers Set Pace in Preliminaries Of Tournament Monday Night

Camp Jacksonville boxers set the pace in the preliminaries of a CCC Camp tournament here last night, winning six of their nine bouts, while battles from four other camps divided honors to place men in the finals which will be fought tonight.

Old fashioned haymakers ended some of the 12 first night matches, with technical K. O.'s also sprinkled through the program. The most of the three rounds, however, went the full route with the boys showing the results of fine physical condition.

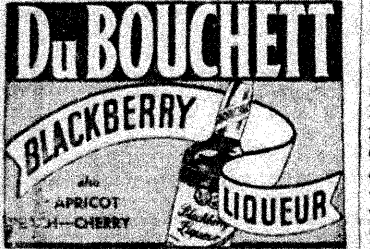

Leaving their soil erosion jobs, levee building and forestry work yesterday afternoon, squads of CCC enrollees from five camps in this area converged in Jacksonville. Camps Hull, Macomb, Pittsfield, Camp Point and Jacksonville entered scrappers in the tournament.

Several hundred khaki-clad cadets and army officers mingled with the crowd of townspeople that gathered in the Illinois School for the Deaf gymnasium for the first card. Camp Jacksonville fighters were cheered by a large rooting section of the local enrollees.

Carman Rocotello, a 125 pounder from Jacksonville, put Marion Sullivan of Macomb away in the second round of their fracas with a vicious barrage that made Sullivan say quite. Someone may have carried tales between these boys before the bout, for they came together in the center of the ring with a resounding thud and tried to bury each other under the leather.

After a slam-bang first round, Rocotello found his mark in the second and nailed the Macomb boy with a series of hard smashes. Sullivan shouted to the referee after one of these volleys and the bout was halted.

Roy Mohlman, husky 160 pounder from Macomb, struck exactly three blows in his abbreviated bout against Angelo Starcevic of Jacksonville, and Angelo was on the canvass exactly three times in 30 seconds. He sprawled out in the ring a fourth time after being helped to his feet.

Stanford Picked as West's Representative in Football Contest in Huge Rose Bowl

By Paul Zimmerman

Associated Press Sports Writer
Los Angeles, Nov. 25.—(P)—For the third successive season, Stanford was named today to represent the west in the annual Rose Bowl football game at Pasadena New Year's day.

The eastern foe may be chosen in "two or three days."

The vote of the ten Pacific coast conference members was not unanimous.

Prof. Hugh C. Willett, conference chairman, refused to say how the vote ended. It was understood, however, Coach Claude (Tiny) Thornhill's Stanford squad received 7 votes, one more than the necessary majority.

University of California at Los Angeles, tied with California and Stanford for conference leadership, was understood to have voted for Stanford.

The selection of Stanford to uphold the laurels of the Pacific Coast—a task at which they have been less successful than any other western institution—immediately brought up the question of whom the officials at Palo Alto would select as their opponent.

Stanford has made plain that it prefers an undefeated team. With Princeton and Minnesota among the untouchables the selection would automatically dwindle down to New York U. Texas Christian and Southern Methodist.

"If either Southern Methodist or Texas Christian turns out to be the best team in the country," said Coach Thornhill, "I don't see why we can't play them."

Thornhill, who did the talking in the absence of Al Masters, graduate manager, said he didn't have the slightest idea who would be invited.

"It probably will be two or three days before we make a choice. With so many colleges turning down invitations before they get one, we'll have to find out just who would be willing to come."

Stanford has been in the Rose Bowl five times in the last eleven years, but has won only one game. This was a 7 to 6 victory over Pittsburgh in 1928. The Indians started out in 1925, losing 27 to 29 to a decision to the late Knute Rockne's Notre Dame team.

The boys from Palo Alto tackled Alabama in 1927 when the Crimson tide, making its second of four successful trips to the Rose Bowl football fiesta, tied the score at 7 to 7.

In the last few minutes.

Stanford invited Columbia in 1934 over the protests of many who contended Coach Lou Little eleven was no match for the powerful western in the annual Rose Bowl football game at Pasadena New Year's day.

The final chapter in the series that started in 1916 was written last January 1 when Alabama turned Dixie Howell loose in as great a pass throwing display as ever was seen in the Garland bedecked bowl. Howell's running and kicking also figured in that game before 86,000 persons as Stanford was swept into defeat, 29 to 13.

Graduate manager W. W. Monahan of the University of California extended congratulations to Stanford.

"Naturally we are disappointed at not receiving the bid," Monahan said "but we accept the Pacific Coast conference vote without question."

A modified three year rule, under which it is proposed to limit students at Illinois College to three years competition on its football and basketball teams.

The move, prompted as it was by the desire to expand the athletic program so as to include more people in competition, meets with the general policy of this column.

There will be some criticism of this attempt to broaden the athletic program, in view of the fact that it probably will keep freshmen who are capable of becoming members of varsity teams, from getting there in their first year.

One thing is certain, and that is that the athletic affairs of the college are in friendly hands. Any man who will sit and watch a football game in a downpour of rain certainly likes the game. That was what President H. C. Jaquith of the college did once this year, and it is almost a safe statement that he didn't miss any games Illinois College teams played this year, that it was at all possible to attend.

Another thing is certain and that is that the college could not have selected a better, or worse depending upon the point of view, time to make the change. Material for next year's football team is practically nil. Therefore prospects for a winner are dark, but the excuse has been provided.

Coaches at the high school conference last week elected Fritz Friedl, popular Belleville coach, president of the organization, and at the same time presented a petition to the high school association to change the brand of basketball adopted as official for tournaments.

There has been considerable dissatisfaction with the ball selected by the state association, and the matter was discussed freely several months ago. Coaches have taken the ball by the horns and have requested a change. The high school association probably will act favorably in view of the fact that it is an organization of coaches back of the request.

Carbondale high is feeling its football oats. They have finished their season undefeated and untied and have hurled a challenge to the world to meet any high school team away from home Thanksgiving day. Carbondale has won 28 of its last 29 games.

Wallace Wade's contract at Duke calls for a salary between $15,000 and $20,000, putting him at the top of the second flight of coaches. Slip Madison, Pop Warner and Lou Little each receive $20,000 per annum.

When Minnesota and Ohio State tied for the Big Ten championship, it was the fourth time in nine years the conference wound up in a tie. It's a mythical championship anyway, because no official award is given.

For the statistically minded—Minnesota scored 20 touchdowns and 14 points to Ohio State's 18 touchdowns and 12 points. The Illini scored only one touchdown in conference competition.

Coach Raymond Nusspickel and the managers of the Illinois College football team, got their annual ducking the night before the game with McKendree. Players dragged the coach and two managers under the showers and game them cold baths.

Nusspickel got some measure of revenge, however, when he connected a hose with a cold water faucet and doused the football players.

Called upon for a speech after the game with McKendree and during the annual Gridiron hop, Nusspickel said "Well, the boys did it." Tony Donat was called upon for a response, and said "Well, Butch did it." And there you are.

M. M. Barlow, chairman of the Nichols Park golf committee, estimated that approximately 5,000 rounds of golf were played over the municipal links during the past summer. Gate receipts showed an increase of over $275 for the year.

Matty Bell, of S. M. U. and Stub Allison, of California, refute the theory that it takes a coach years to get his system working satisfactorily. Both are distinct successes in their first season on a new job. . . . Joe Louis made more than $325,000 in three fights under Mike Jacobs' promotion. . . . Roger Bernard, the featherweight who gave Freddie Miller all he wanted in Toronto, is his own manager. . . . Bill Spaulding, U. C. L. A. grid coach, also teaches golf. . . . Bernie Bierman, Minnesota mentor, is left-handed.

Football and Basketball to Come Under New Rule During Next Year; Nine Join in Plan

Illinois College will join with eight other colleges in the Illinois College conference in enforcing the freshman rule in football and basketball next year, President H. C. Jaquith announced today in his column in the Illinois College Rambler, student publication. Freshmen will be prohibited from playing on the varsity teams in football and basketball, but will be allowed to compete in tennis, golf, swimming, track and baseball teams.

Augustana, Millikin, North Central and Wheaton will join with Illinois College in putting the freshman rule in effect next fall, joining Bradley Tech, Knox, Lake Forest and Monmouth, colleges which already have the rule in effect. Other members of the conference will be invited to adopt the rule at a meeting to be held in Peoria, Nov. 30, President Jaquith stated.

The action is being taken individually by the colleges, President Jaquith said, and does not have any effect on the Illinois College conference. The matter probably will come up for discussion when faculty representatives and coaches gather for their mid-winter meeting, at which football schedules will be drawn up for next year.

In "Prexy's Column" of the college newspaper, President Jaquith points out that during the last two years Illinois College has lost Knox, Monmouth and Lake Forest from its schedule because of not having the freshman rule. The college athletic department has been handicapped in making out its schedules, and has been unable to obtain games with colleges with which it would prefer to compete.

Colleges adopting the freshman rule are to give each other preference when schedules are made out, under a "gentlemen's agreement." The article states that it was at a conference at which the problem was discussed that it was agreed to renew athletic relations with James Millikin. Although no definite arrangements have been made, Illinois hopes to resign its schedule to include games with Knox, Millikin and Monmouth within the next year or two.

Illinois Wesleyan, Eureka, McKendree, Shurtleff, Carthage and the five Normal colleges have not as yet accepted the plan. Illinois Wesleyan is said to be considering the plan favorably, but has not taken any official action.

Plans for the adoption of the freshman rule were worked out at a series of conferences held at Peoria. It was decided at these conferences that the group would accept the action as binding if nine of the colleges represented would accept it as a matter of policy. Wheaton colleges recently announced its decision to adopt the modified freshman rule, following favorable action taken by Illinois College, North Central, Augustana and Millikin.

President Jaquith, in his article, points out that the Mid-Western conference, composed of state and municipal universities, the Indiana college conference, and college conferences in the east have followed this plan for several years.

Promote Larger Program
"The goal is 100 percent participation on the part of the students in some form of pleasurable recreation and sport. Continual expansion of the inter-mural athletic program on the campus is one definite objective. Inter-collegiate athletics is a concentration of this general objective, plus that of establishing friendly relationships with other colleges. In many instances, the only student contact, with colleges with similar purposes to our own, is in these competitive games. These relationships should be maintained on a basis of equality, good sportsmanship, and in so far as possible in the interest of the largest number of students and alumni," the article states.

"Training and practice demand hours each day which might be devoted to other activities and to class room preparation. A freshman making the many first adjustments to scholastic duties, college life and possibly working for part of his expenses is handicapped the first year if the strenuous training program of varsity competition is added. On the other hand, freshmen teams with lighter schedules will provide the opportunity for more individuals to participate," he said.

Leading the two members of the college athletic staff, Athletic Director LeRue Van Meter and Coach Ray Nusspickel, both of whom are members of the faculty for their ability to guide and direct successful teams, President Jaquith said:

"Illinois College students and alumni have a right to be proud of the record in all sports. We cannot expect to win all the games all the time."

Adoption of the rule next fall will put the football team, which for the last two years has finished in second place in the Little 12 on the spot. Five of the veteran freshmen, all of whom have been outstanding in their play, will graduate this year, and there is not much material in the freshman class of this year with which to make replacements. Co-Captains Albert Feduris and Lou Davis, Willis Munger, Meffert Kurtz, and Fred Coleman, will complete their years of college eligibility next spring.

There were only four freshmen who had much opportunity to play during the past season. They were Mike Zupisch, a guard and tackle, Jack Hartung, and Lawrence, an end, and Waller, end. Other promising material included McWard, tackle, Redman, tackle, and Reynolds, guard. Blumhardt, halfback. This year's freshman class failed to produce much in the way of football material aside from the above mentioned boys.

The entire backfield and some replacement will be available again next year, including Tony Donat and Kenneth Mann, quarterbacks, Sammy Mangieri, Al Lambardo, Ray Smith and Russell Speuhr, halfbacks, Nick Watts, Bill Clem and Eddie Hansen, fullbacks.

The basketball team appears to be well fortified for the next two years, despite the fact that this will be Louis Lester's last year as center. Herbert Schaeffer, Springfield, and Wellbourne, former McKendree College center, the Fletcher brothers, Virgil and Cecil, will be available for the 1939-40 season if they remain in college.

Little 19 Wind-up Set for Thursday

Millikin, Monmouth, Knox Still Undefeated; I. C. Ties for Second

Chicago—(P)—The Illinois Inter-collegiate conference will close out the 1938 football ledger Thursday, with the championship hanging on the outcome of two of the three final games.

Knox and Monmouth, both undefeated in league play, will meet in the fifty-first game in their series, with a share of the championship at stake. Monmouth could lay claim to a portion of the title with a tie game, but Knox must win to stay in the running because it has already been tied.

Millikin, with three wins in three consecutive starts, will meet Bradley in another old rivalry that might produce an upset. Bradley has defeated only Western Teachers 3 to 0, and tied Knox, while losing four times.

Monmouth boasts one of the most impressive records in the conference, with victories over Bradley, Carthage, and Augustana. The Scots have scored 79 points while holding the opposition scoreless.

McKendree, after keeping pace with the leaders for the entire season, faced its final game of the year Saturday at Illinois, 13 to 0. The loss boosted Illinois College into a tie for second place in the standings and pushed McKendree down to sixth.

The standings:

Monmouth	3	0	0	100

Business Boom is Heralded by A. F. Of L. in Statement

Arguments Fly Between Groups as to Cause of Better Business Claims

Washington, (AP)—The words "coming boom," uttered distinctly even if cautiously, by the American Federation of Labor, called attention today to a major shift of emphasis that has taken place in the capital almost overnight.

Many of the pronouncements that stream from Washington presses and mimeograph machines, official and otherwise, show a change from depression psychology to a "better times" psychology.

Government reports, like the A. F. of L.'s and others, stress indices of better business. Officials who, only a few short months ago, spoke mostly of ways to combat the depression, now talk of methods controlling expansion.
Marriner S. Eccles, federal reserve board governor, speaks of the board's "adequate weapons" to control credit and prevent a "runaway stock market."

Concomitantly, politicians and economics commentators fall into arguments as to what caused the better business. One view, vigorously voiced, is that New Deal spending and other policies pulled the country through. Another, upheld just as vehemently, is that natural forces are bringing recovery despite New Deal measures.

The A. F. of L.'s report, published today, said there would be a business and industrial boom "within the next few years." At the same time the federal reserve board said maintenance of business activity at near the year's peak has been the outstanding fact in the economic situation during the first ten months of 1935.

Balanced Budgets!

It is just as essential that the individual work under a "balanced budget" as for a city—that is, your income must equal the outgo, at least. If you need money, and a little advice as to how to make and keep a balanced budget, see us. We lend rate plan.

Administration of County Schools is Subject of Debate

Changes are Recommended
During Conferences
Last Week

Springfield, Ill. — (AP) — Changes in the state and county school administration system and increases in state aid to poorer districts are being advocated by the committee of experts retained by the Illinois Educational Commission to draft bills for a forthcoming special session.

Preliminary recommendations discussed at meetings of school officials during the past week would provide for:

1. Creation of a state board of education, appointed by the governor for long terms, to outline policies for the elementary and high schools. If the constitution could be amended, the board would appoint the state superintendent of public instruction.
2. Establishment of county school units under county boards of education, which would appoint the county superintendents and have supervisory jurisdiction over all schools except those in the larger cities.
3. Grants of additional state aid to elementary schools, with special aid to the needier high schools, estimates being that the immediate program would require a $8,800,000 annual increase in the state school distributive fund.

Autonomy Declared In China

25 Counties of North China Area Break Away from Old Central Government;
Others Invited to Join.

"HARMONY WITH JAPAN"

Tungchow, Hopeh Province — (AP) — An autonomous government for a wide area of North China, embracing 25 counties in Hopeh and Chahar Provinces, was inaugurated today in simple ceremonies.

Yin Ju-Keng, head of the new government, announced all five provinces of North China have been invited to join in self-government with the autonomous area, which includes only parts of two of the provinces.

Declaring foreign interests would not be jeopardized, Yin, who was formerly administrative commissioner of the North China demilitarized zone, said:

"I stand for the rescue of China and close harmony with Japan."

Proclaiming political independence from Nanking, Yin emphasized the new government was "autonomous, not separatist."

The inauguration of the autonomous council which Yin heads was held in Confucian Temple inside the ancient Tungchow walls.

Yin said the government will assume control of all revenues except the salt and customs taxes and "will exert its best efforts in safeguarding peace in the Far East."

The newly-proclaimed self-government area included roughly about 8-600 miles—all territory south of the great wall to within a few miles of Peiping and Tientsin, and also taking in several counties of southeastern Chahar province.

Chinese estimates placed the population of the autonomous area at about 5,000,000.

A belief spread widely that the establishment of an autonomous regime in the demilitarized zone was a forerunner of similar action by Gen. Sung Cheh-Yuan, overlord of Hopeh and Chahar provinces.

VESPER SERVICE AT MACMURRAY PORTRAYS BIBLE

Few persons realize that the thundering daily news presses and the morning paper on their doorstep owe a great deal to the book that has been called, "the world's best seller." The Thanksgiving vesper service at MacMurray college Sunday afternoon, dramatically portrayed the history of the Bible, showing first of all that the urge to glorify this book was responsible for the first printed work in the English language by Miles Coverdale in the early 16th century. John Gutenberg labored in Germany many with the world's first printing press at an earlier date. The first product of that labor was a copy of the Bible. The whole process of early printing and the introduction of the printed Bible played a large part in that enlightening period known as the Renaissance in Europe—the period that saw the discovery of America and the dawn of a new day "hat banished the darkness of a mediaeval night."

The history of this great book, sketched with more than a hundred student characters playing parts, began with the two persons who were privileged to receive the first Bible in London in 1535. The closing scene portrayed a modern family group who were rejoicing in the good which the "Word" was working in the world.

The historical steps between these scenes were dramatically shown with the prison cell of John Bunyan, author of Pilgrim's Progress; the signing of the Mayflower compact as these fathers of our country swore to abide by the word of God to build a "good community"; a picture of the influence of the early Christian college; and a symbolic presentation of the Bible to costumed characters of every occupation and of foreign lands.

The scenes were enacted before a living, back stage scenery. On one side was the speaking chorus to produce some remarkable effects with perfectly trained and well blended voices. On the other, the college choir who sang hymns as the lights darkened to change scenes.

As the final impression for the appreciation of the crowded auditorium, truth gaid in white robes and hoods, the Bible stood elevated above all, giving forth a light that could shine through any darkness, uplift any races, and guide the destinies of any great democracy—the Word of God, unchanged and triumphant throughout the history of Mankind.

HOLD FINAL DRESS REHEARSAL HERE FOR H. S. MINSTREL

Final dress rehearsal was held last night for the Jacksonville High school minstrel, which will be presented tomorrow evening from the stage of the school auditorium. The curtain is scheduled to rise at 8:00 p. m.

Several new features have been planned for this year's installment of the Gumption minstrel. One of the most important of these is the big amateur contest which will take place between the two acts of the main show, "Major Hickle's Amateur Hour" it has been named, and the acts which have been planned for it are nothing if not original and different. Everything from snoring champions to imitators of teachers will appear on it, vying for the prize, a free bottle of "Dr. Baird's Rootin' Tootin' oil."

As was the case last year, Harold Gibson will serve as interlocutor. The inevitable six funny men are Ray Hamilton, Lee Murphy, Richard Hopper and Abbie Ketter, all airing their blackface talent for the first time, and Ted Wainwright and "Pete" Riggs, both veterans of the 1934 edition. Hamilton will sing "Sugar Blues," Murphy "Alabama Jubilee," Ketter "Basin Street Blues," Hopper has prepared a heart-rendering rendition of "Alcohol," Riggs will sing "I Ain't Got Nobody," and Wainwright will croon a version of "Barnacle Bill."

There are also several specialties from members of the chorus. Marjorie Axe will play her accordion and sing. Patty Norbury, Allan Emily King, and Becky Rantz will dance. Margaret Ellington and Winona Cocking provide one of the most beautiful numbers of the entertainment in their vocal duet, "East of the Sun and West of the Moon." Mar Norbury and Doris Johnson, who were so well received when they danced in last year's minstrel, will tap out another number. Betty Brown and John Wright join in a dramatic singing of "That's What You Think." The Rhythm Blenders, the Misses Moxon, Ross, and Kemp will render a selection, and Frances Stout and Veta Mae Walker will tap dance.

A ventriloquist act has also been arranged. "Pete" Riggs showing unusual talent in this art as he manipulates the "life sized doll." This act has been kept more or less of a secret until last night and it promises to be something new.

The cast will be presented to the school this afternoon and a couple of numbers will be presented as a preview.

Addis Ababa.—(AP)—The Ethiopian government claimed today the tide of battle on the northern front was definitely turning in favor of Ethiopia, as the result of two victories within three days by crack troops under Dedjazmatch Wores.Simultaneously, semi-official reports from the south stated the Italians had been driven from Gorraheh, a fortified town in Oga province, with heavy losses. The Fascists had seized the town early in their penetration from Italian Somaliland.From the east, the palace received word from Dedjazmatch Mohammed Yahia, commander in Aussa province, who the Italians have asserted was a deserter, stating "the situation in my province is satisfactory."The government announced Ras Seyoum's troops under Dedjazmatch Wores surprised three Italian battalions north of Makale, killed the commander and several soldiers and dispersed the others.The native defenders were said to be sweeping the invaders back after however, as to why he left the council when he did.He implied he had decided upon this move before he was re-elected a vice

With All My Love

Nancy threw herself across the bed but it was impossible to sleep when she was so excited.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Young and lovely DANA WEST-BROOK, born and reared abroad, comes to America after the death of her parents to make her home with her grandmother, whom she has never seen.

Years before, Dana's mother eloped, leaving her husband and an infant daughter, NANCY WAL-LACE. After the divorce she had married young Westbrook and a year later their daughter, named Dana for her father, was born.

When Dana reaches the old southern home she is welcomed cordially by her great aunt, MISS ELLEN CAMERON, but is coldly received by her grandmother and half-sister. Dana decides mysteriously, "They don't really want me. I shouldn't have come."

MRS. CAMERON, who secretly be-gins plans to introduce Dana to society, hoping that Dana will marry well. Nancy, who be-lieves to be a hopeless lover for ROSALIE MOORE, rich and handsome. When the old Cam-eron car breaks down in front of his estate, Donald brings Dana home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER V

NANCY was sure she would never again be surprised at anything in her whole life. The rigid barriers that had been erected against even the slightest extravagance in the Cameron household were sud-denly forgotten in preparation for the coming party. And Nancy, de-spite her resentment at the reason for it—Dana—would not have been human if she hadn't enjoyed the temporary recklessness with the family funds.

She was going to have a new dress!

Only a day before Nancy had been thinking unhappily, "What'll I wear? That old pink organdy, I suppose. I wish it would fall into holes so I'd have to get a new evening dress. I wish I had nerve enough to spill ink down the front of it."

And then there was her grand-mother saying, "I suppose both of you girls will need new dresses. I think your Aunt Ellen and I saw the very ones for you. Twin mod-els at Burger-Goodlett's. They're white, which I think is prettiest for young girls. And" (Mrs. Cam-eron had not completely forgotten her thrifty habits) "you can wear white longer. It is less conspicu-ous and it can always be dyed."

A Burger-Goodlett frock? Nancy's big eyes widened in amazement. This was something, indeed. Oh, it was going to be grand to appear in something besides that atrocious pink! She felt decently dressed for once in one's life.

"When do we go for our dress-ings?" Nancy asked, her voice husky with emotion.

"Any time you wish. The dresses have been laid aside for you."

Nancy could scarcely wait. She wanted to rush from the room and race to town. But when one is in and has spent several years culti-vating a pose of indifference it will not do to drop the mask all at once.

"I guess I'll take a nap. I'm awfully sleepy," Nancy said, man-aging a quite natural yawn. She went to her room and threw her-self across her bed. Impossible to sleep when one was as excited as this, wondering oneself in a long, lovely white frock!

THE house was very quiet and presently Nancy drifted off to sleep while listening to the drone of the humming birds in the red honeysuckle vine. It was 3 o'clock when she awakened.

Now she could leave the house and see Grandmother and Aunt Ellen, suspecting she was rushing off to see the new dresses. With elaborate carelessness, she left the house, swinging a tennis racket.

Perhaps she should have knocked at Dana's door, and asked her to come along for a fitting, too. But that Nancy felt, would be a weak ness. Just because one was going to have a new dress was no reason to turn sentimental and sappy and do things you didn't want to do.

Nancy was quite sure, anyhow, that Dana was sleeping. Everyone in the old house fell into the habit of an afternoon nap because there was nothing else to do to fill the time.

As Nancy backed the Cameron automobile down the drive into the street, a roadster, driven by Marie Norman, swerved quickly, avoiding a collision.

"Lo, Nancy," Marie called.

The other girls' response was none too cordial. She halted the car, however, as it was apparent Marie wanted to talk.

"Hello," Nancy said. Marie Norman had always had an irritat-ing effect on her. Marie was al-ways perfectly bland and agreeable, all sweetness and light, but, just the same, she was full of tricks and used them when it suited her purpose, with unscrupulous cunning.

There had been times, too, when Nancy's rapier-like wit had drawn blood at the expense of her slower-witted neighbor. Somehow, Nancy knew that Marie had an adding dislike for her, behind smiling eyes and slow, indolent voice.

"I'm just back from the club," Marie announced. "Guess who is out there?"

"Too hot for guesswork?"

"Your perfectly knockout sister."

"My sister?" Nancy dropped her eyes for a moment. "Oh—Dana. I'd forgotten she planned to go out this afternoon."

"You should have been there to see the hit she made. Boys swarm-ing around her like bees

Englishmen Meet I. C. Students In Debate Monday

Britishers Discuss Constitution At Jones Chapel Last Night

Two gentlemen on the "grand tour" from Oxford, the old and distinguished Balliol college, stopped at Illinois College long enough last evening for one of the gentlemen to term the debate taking place before a crowded Jones chapel as a "disputing equivocal peroration." The discussion was originally intended to be confined with the question, Resolved: "That a written constitution is a hindrance rather than a safeguard to social progress."

The definition particularly the "disput" was entirely in the spirit of humor; and the Britishers, Richard Kay-Shuttleworth and A. W. J. Greenwood were successful in blending the comic side of the situation with some highly pertinent criticisms of a nearly rigid constitution as a democratic instrument of government.

Walter Bellati, of Jacksonville, a senior at Illinois, with Johnson Kanady, junior from Springfield, advanced the negative argument of the discussion. Prof. John Griffith Ames, an alumnus of Balliol college at Oxford, acted as chairman of the debate.

The entire attack of the English team was contained in a phrase which Kay-Shuttleworth used in complimenting Prof. Ames, when he said the latter's manner was characteristic of Balliol graduates, maintaining always a "tranquil consciousness of effortless superiority." The local debaters were insistent always that the opponents define "a written constitution" and "social progress" in order to establish a common ground for debate.

Perhaps the most outstanding feature of evidence to the audience was the contrast between the English and American style of debate. In the former country, the style of speaking is informal, easy, often witty—but using these popular approaches for the thrusting in of many pertinent and valuable remarks which firmly establish the argument. Further, the English have the knack of bringing their remarks to a logical conclusion in a pleasant, almost diplomatic manner which does much to clarify the mental picture for the listener.

The debate was ended without a decision, also an English characteristic; and it would have been difficult to determine which of the teams advanced their opinions most convincingly, largely because they were speaking in different terms, and from vastly different points of view.

The Britishers were highly successful in pointing out the disadvantages of the American style of debate, as far as the spectators were concerned, well appreciated fun at the Illinois team. Their manner of speaking was fluent, and demonstrative of their success in the legal profession.

In one of the serious thrusts at the constitution, the British team cited the distrust, and in some cases, contempt with which the American people held certain units and personalities in our own government—describing this as the most fertile field for the seed of communism and dictatorship. They maintained that a flexible and unwritten constitution such as England has, does more to prevent this situation.

The closing speech of Greenwood, the last of the evening, sounded a deeper keynote of the relations between the two countries, casting aside all sarcasm and humor, all futile attempts to prove on a debate platform the superiority of either form of government, he expressed the hope that this contact between British and America might leave a personal desire with those who were present to think of the kinship of the two races and the degree of cooperation which they might enjoy.

Y.M.C.A. Campaign Goal Is Reached; Sum Of $3,122 Reported

"Over the Top!"
The sum of $3,122.85 secured, on an objective of $3,000.00, and the total raised within the days set for the campaign—Monday to Monday.

Such was the final announcement made at the meeting of workers in the campaign to raise funds for the budget of the Jacksonville Y.M.C.A. The meeting was held in the Grace Church last night, where approximately 75 men and women who had been "pounding the pavements" for the past week securing the above reported sum, broke into enthusiastic cheers when the final total was announced.

It was stated at the meeting that it was the first time in five years that a financial campaign goal had been reached in Jacksonville, and those in charge of the drive said that credit for the successful program was entirely due to the splendid organization of workers, who collectively and individually worked enthusiastically through the week allotted. The organization of workers facing a difficult task from the beginning carried on in the campaign with spirit and vigor that culminated in a most successful return.

Return of New Day
This means a return of a New Day for Jacksonville," said Dr. H. C. Jaquith, general chairman of the campaign, in expressing his thanks to all who had so generously and faithfully co-operated in making this meeting a success. "When we went into this tough job we went in determined to make it a success, and a success it has been. We have proven that Jacksonville can do it like it used to be done."

"For twenty-five years I have been helping in campaigns in Jacksonville," said Edgar E. Crabtree, associate general chairman, "and never has there been a more happy climax. This has been a more happy climax than in five years of my life. It means that Jacksonville has proven that it can be done—that we can do the hard job as we used to do it. It is a real triumph, proving the return of morale to the people."

"When we started out on the organizing of this campaign about a month ago we knew it was a tough job," said James N. Conover, chairman of the "special committee." "Then as we went on, we were confronted with unexpected obstacles and the days passed, things looked mighty dark. For various reasons many of the 'old dependables' were unable to have a part in the organization. As a result, the major part of our workers are men and women who are new at this sort of job. And how they have produced! Especially have the women proven themselves, being the 'high production' division of the whole organization. Ladies, we take off our hats to you."

"This campaign has proven that the people of Jacksonville appreciate the work of the local Y. M. C. A. and want its program continued," said Dr. Ellsworth Black, president of the association. "It challenges and inspires the 'Y' to increased service to the youth—boys and girls. In the name of the Board of Directors of the Jacksonville Young Men's Christian Association, I want to thank every one of you workers and the hundreds of contributors who have made this campaign one hundred per cent successful."

Expresses Appreciation.
Secretary A. D. Hermann, in a brief statement, expressed his great appreciation of the wonderful co-operation shown in the campaign. One result of the splendid co-operation of the women must be an increased program for girls, he said, and to accomplish that a committee of women will soon be asked to assist in organizing and directing such a program. Jacksonville is demonstrating in this manner its endorsement of the program the association is attempting with very little equipment here in Jacksonville.

A total of $1,115.00 was reported at the meeting last night as the result of three days of canvassing since the last report meeting. Honors for the greatest report went to the "Blue" division, managed by J. A. Walker and Dr. Black, who reported an even $250.00 for their group. The "Orange" division, under Ben Roodhouse and Arthur Hull, reported a total of $109.25. The division of women—the "Reds"—under Mrs. W. A. Fay and Mrs. Ellsworth Black, reported $188.50; and the "Green" division, managed by Earl Spink and Dr. R. O. Sloops, announced $144.25. Youthful Robber Is Nabbed 45 Minutes After Robbery Here

Forty-five minutes after Carl Byrd, 15 year old Springfield, Ill., boy had robbed Lewis W. Sims, manager of Piggly Wiggly Grocery Store No. 2, at the corner of East College and Hardin avenues, Monday afternoon, he was captured by Mayor Walter Roesch of New Berlin, a short distance east of that city.

Byrd entered the store shortly after 2 o'clock and asked for a candy bar. Sims turned to the candy rack which is located near the cash register. As he turned to hand the candy bar to the youth he noticed the boy had a pistol pointed at him. The youth told Sims "this is a stick up. Don't make any noise or it will be too bad." He then ordered Sims to turn over the money.

Sims opened the cash register and pulled $31 in bills from the register and handed it over to the youthful bandit. The boy snatched the money and walked slowly toward the door. Gene Hayes, a clerk in the store, who was returning from dinner, met the bandit as he went out the door.

In the stationing of the robbery in addition to Sims was John Conner, butcher, and T. E. Ball, a traveling salesman. Neither knew of the robbery until the youth had left the store.

Sims, Ball, Conner and Hayes hurried to the outside in time to catch the license number of the car. They also watched the car as it speeded south on Hardin avenue, turning at Morton avenue on Route 36 toward Springfield.

Sims immediately called the police station and Chief of Police Frank Kilaran and Patrolmen Everett Mann and Ike Flynn answered the call. They were at the store within three minutes.

Calls New Berlin.
As soon as Chief Kilaran learned that the car had speeded east he immediately called New Berlin and asked them to be on the lookout for the bandit.

Patrolmen Mann and Flynn also started out the Morton Road, but could find no one that had seen the car go that direction. Believing that the bandit had back tracked the officers changed the direction.

The sheriff's office was also notified and Deputy Sheriff Cook and Clinton Strassmatt joined in the hunt. Patrolman Wayne Carter at the police station was putting in telephone calls to all nearby towns. He was given splendid co-operation by the long distance operator at the telephone office.

After all city police had been assigned to the case and all cities had been notified Chief Kilaran returned to the police station to take personal charge of the work there. Within a few minutes he received a call from New Berlin that the car had passed that city. Chief Kilaran immediately looked Springfield to be on the lookout for the bandit. Within a few minutes he received another call from New Berlin stating that Byrd had been captured.

The chief with Patrolmen Flynn and Mann and a Journal and Courier reporter went to New Berlin after the robber. Upon arriving in New Berlin they found Byrd in custody of Mayor Roesch at his Chevrolet garage.

When Roesch received word from Jacksonville to watch for the fleeing suspect, he stood guard in front of his garage. Within a few minutes he spotted the car coming down the highway. Roesch, who has had considerable police experience, realized that it would be dangerous to attempt to stop the youth, so he decided to use another method. Jumping into his automobile Roesch started after the bandit car, which was moving at about 30 miles an hour. Roesch passed the car between New Berlin and Bates.

Blocks Road.
Running his car speedily toward Bates, Roesch turned it directly across the hard road and called to E. N. Abel, operator of the Bates elevator, to come over and help him. Roesch told Abel what had happened and told him that he was going to attempt to capture the bandit. Roesch and Abel were working about the car, making it appear as tho they were trying to push it off the road. Byrd approached the stalled car slowly and as he started to pull off the road to pass, Roesch suddenly leaped to the running board of the car and covered the youth with his pistol.

Byrd at first refused to stop, but when Roesch told him he would shoot the youth stopped. He was slow getting out of the car, but was finally overpowered and disarmed.

Roesch and Abel then brought the youth back to New Berlin. When Chief Kilaran and the Jacksonville officers arrived, Roesch turned over $31 in currency which he had found on Byrd. He also gave them a .38 calibre pistol and a belt containing several rounds of ammunition.

Chief Kilaran immediately removed the cylinder and bullets from the pistol and laid the empty pistol on a filing cabinet in Roesch's private office. With the officers standing near him, Byrd suddenly made a leap for the empty pistol, but didn't get within ten feet of it before he was seized by the officers. He said that he only wanted to look at the gun.

Shortly after the Jacksonville officers arrived in New Berlin, Chief of Detectives C. W. Jessberg, Assistant Chief of Police Frank Healy and Detective Fred Doerflinger of the Springfield department arrived.

Jessberg told the local officers that Byrd had robbed a grocery store in Springfield Saturday morning and had secured $65 in the holdup. He made his escape in an automobile which had been stolen from Ann McCabe of Springfield Friday night, it is alleged.

On the return trip to Jacksonville, Byrd talked freely with the officers. Sticks Up Grocery Store. He stated that he had stolen the automobile Friday night and that he needed some gasoline Saturday morning and decided to stick up a grocery store at the corner of Laurel and College streets. He said that he obtained only $10 in the robbery. After this robbery, Byrd said he came to Jacksonville and went from here to Quincy, Ill. and then to Brookfield, Mo., where he arrived Saturday night. He said that he stayed in Brookfield two nights, leaving there at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning. He said that he left Missouri because he feared that the state police might stop him and ask for his driver's license.

Byrd said he reached Jacksonville shortly before noon and cruised about the town looking for a store to stick up. He said he had set up all the $10 he had obtained in the Springfield holdup and needed money to buy some more gasoline. After cruising about the city he said he "spotted" the Piggly Wiggly store. He said that a milk truck was unloading milk there so he waited until the driver had completed his work and then went in.

After the robbery he said that he drove south on Hardin avenue and started toward Springfield. He said he was surprised when Mayor Roesch captured him near Bates. He said that since he had made a getaway from the Springfield robbery, he thought it would be easy to get away from here. He wanted to know how the police had got word to New Berlin so quickly. He said that the Jacksonville police are "sure hot."

Byrd told the police that he quit school two weeks ago and said that he was in the tenth grade. The boy said that he liked to work alone because most boys talk too much and are easily captured.

He said that he did not have enough nerve to steal the car Friday night, so he purchased a pint of whiskey and got "charged up." He stated that he always had to take on a few drinks before pulling a job.

When he left Brookfield Monday morning, he told police, he purchased a pint of whiskey and had part of it when he reached Jacksonville. He said he "killed" the bottle just before going into the Piggly Wiggly store.

When asked why he was driving so slow between Jacksonville and New Berlin, he said that he was "pretty drunk" and that a short distance east of Jacksonville while engaged in counting his loot from the Jacksonville robbery, he had run off the road and into a fence. He said that he realized then that he was "pretty drunk" and had better play safe. He said that he also feared if he went at a high rate of speed he would attract attention. When arrested Byrd did not appear to be intoxicated.

The youth said that he stopped at the Standard Oil filling
